Stumped by a stamp

I know the Jamaica stamp is damaged, but it annoyed me that I couldn't find it.

The other one baffles me.
No doubt you will enlighten me.

Odds and Sods

I have had a request from 'Support Dogs' for someone to help them sort stamps and albums before they go to charity. If anyone is interested in helping, please let me know.

"We already pass stamps to a wholesaler who gives us around £10 per kg. Many of our supporters send stamps directly to them which removes a lot of admin our end.

We also get donated a number of albums and collections which we don't want to send to the wholesaler initially as they may have more value if we sell them on ebay. What we'd like from you if possible is a yes, they are more valuable on Ebay or a no just send them to the wholesaler. If you could give us a general price to put them on ebay for that would be amazing! We have a volunteer who manages our Ebay account so we can manage all that. If you wanted any of them you'd be very welcome to purchase them.

We don't have any timescales so can work around you."
